

PATENT
03923-P0001B GSW/SBS

Abstract

A guide device attached to the end of a caulking tube to aide an individual in the application of a substance to a surface, thereby minimizing the amount of time involved to apply the substance and further minimizing unnecessary waste of the substance. The guide device being a detachable application guide with a protrusion that may be draw along a straight edge to help keep the nozzle steady during application.